Side-by-Side Quick-Drill – All 12 Channels, Cumulative

Isolated facts about one channel are 30 disconnected trivia items. Facts placed next to a channel's neighbors become pattern recognition. This document groups the 12 primary channels into the 4 sets that share hand/foot + Yin/Yang category -- one channel from each of the 3 circuits -- plus a compact paired-channel table.

This Document Contains:

Hand-Yin Triad: LU vs PC vs HT

Hand-Yang Triad: LI vs SJ vs SI

Foot-Yang Triad: ST vs GB vs BL

Foot-Yin Triad: SP vs LR vs KI (incl. the SP/LR crossing-point trap)

Compact paired-channel table -- all 6 pairs, one page

PC/SJ (Ministerial Fire) use a lighter coral tint of the Fire color -- same element, distinguishable subtype

Core attributes verified via existing Master Comparison (Wk1-6)

Limb-position + direction rows are standard CAM/Deadman topography, labeled as general reference rather than lecture-specific claims.

Back-Shu	BL13	BL14	BL15
Confluent (8EV)	LU7 (Ren Mai)	PC6 (Yin Wei)	--

Distinguishing features:

- LU: 1st to receive Qi from food/air (Tai Yin opens); only channel with no crossing points listed
- PC: Zero crossing points (same trap pattern as HT); pathway is the shortest of the 3
- HT: Zero crossing points (same trap pattern as PC); the only Fire (proper) Yin channel

All three: hand -> head, arm midline positions

	LI	SJ	SI
Yin/Yang	Yang	Yang	Yang

Distinguishing features:

- LI: Zero incoming meeting points; ends beside the nose, handing off to ST -- classic trap
- SJ: Extensive GB overlap (both Shaoyang) -- crosses GB twice at the shoulder
- SI: Longest hand-Yang pathway; scapula zigzag before reaching the face

Confluent (8EV)	--	GB41 (Dai Mai)	BL62 (Yang Qiao)

Distinguishing features:

- ST: Only channel through the nipple; longest primary channel by point count (45)
- GB: Most zigzagging head pathway of any channel; GB34 = He-Sea + Hui-Meeting of Sinews
- BL: Most points of any channel (67); carries all 12 Back-Shu points

Back-Shu	BL20	BL18	BL23
Confluent (8EV)	SP4 (Chong Mai)	--	KI6 (Yin Qiao)

Distinguishing features:

- SP: Only channel with a distribution exception -- crosses in front of LR above 8 cun from medial malleolus
- LR: Reaches the vertex (GV20) via its final branch; LR13 = Front-Mu of SP + Hui-Meeting of Zang (2 categories)
- KI: Only medial-leg channel with NO crossing exception -- posterior line throughout
